Exactly 84 per cent of the merchants who failed in 1903 did not advertise in the newspapers, according to Bradstreet, and it is altogether possible that the other 16 per cent did not advertise in the right paper. It is the height of folly to try to do business without advertising, and it is almost as foolish to buy advertising space in a newspaper without taking into consideration both the quantity and quality of the paper's circulation—New Orleans (La.) States.
